

"There is nothing more exciting than working with my father, for whom I have so much personal and professional respect. I've learned a lot from him, most notably the benefits of friendly care. Not only will I treat you and your child's smiles with skill and a soft touch, I will make sure your visits are a fun and positive experience."

Daniel Snow, D.D.S., M.S.

"I am devoted to creating an individual orthodontic treatment plan that works with your lifestyle and your particular needs. To stay on top of the latest developments in my field, I maintain membership in professional organizations and attend continued education courses. By offering you the latest advances in orthodontics, you are getting a well-rounded range of skills that will be offered to you and the results that you want. You will appreciate this level of advanced care, plus the friendliness that goes with it."

Orthodontic treatment is a gradual process that the clinician oversees for an extended period of time. A special relationship is generated between the clinician and the patient, one that I eagerly look forward to and treasure. This is a unique opportunity to see the attractive change in your smile that will affect the course of your life. I am dedicated to giving you the most thorough, comprehensive and latest techniques that the orthodontic field has to offer. As a patient you work hard to keep your braces from breaking off, keeping them clean and the discomfort that comes with it, therefore I will work diligently to ensure that your treatment will be done in a timely matter. Each patient deserves personal and dedicated treatment. I will provide you with the healthy, beautiful smile that you've always wanted."
